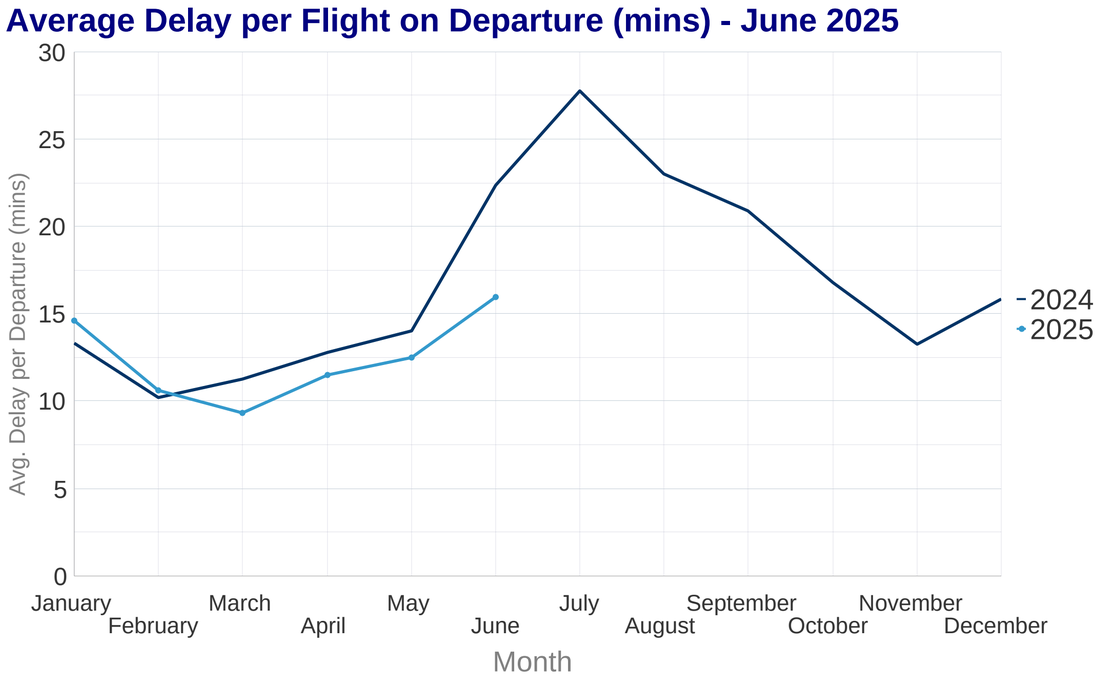
All-Causes Delays for Air Transport in Europe

June 2025

Flights within the ECAC area increased by 2.6% in June 2025 compared to the same month in 2024. Ryanair maintained its lead as the busiest carrier, with easyJet and Turkish Airlines holding their positions in second and third place respectively. Istanbul Airport handled the highest number of passengers, while Amsterdam Schiphol and Paris Charles de Gaulle followed closely behind. Punctuality improved at the majority of airports when compared to June of the previous year. However, Athens experienced a decline in on-time performance, largely due to ongoing air traffic control capacity restrictions that disrupted multiple flight rotations. In contrast, operations at Istanbul Sabiha Gokcen benefited from fewer weather and aerodrome capacity constraints, resulting in more consistent punctuality. Antalya also saw fewer ATC and aerodrome restrictions overall, but some delays persisted—mainly attributed to new airspace design limitations and en-route congestion affecting flights from the southeast.

Average Delay per Flight on Departure (mins) - June 2025



In June 2025 the average delay per flight on departure was 16.0 minutes per flight.
This was a decrease of 6.4 minutes per flight when compared to June 2024 where the average delay per flight was 22.3 minutes.

Further analysis of the delay causes shows that reactionary delay contributed 6.8 minutes to the average delay per flight in June 2025.

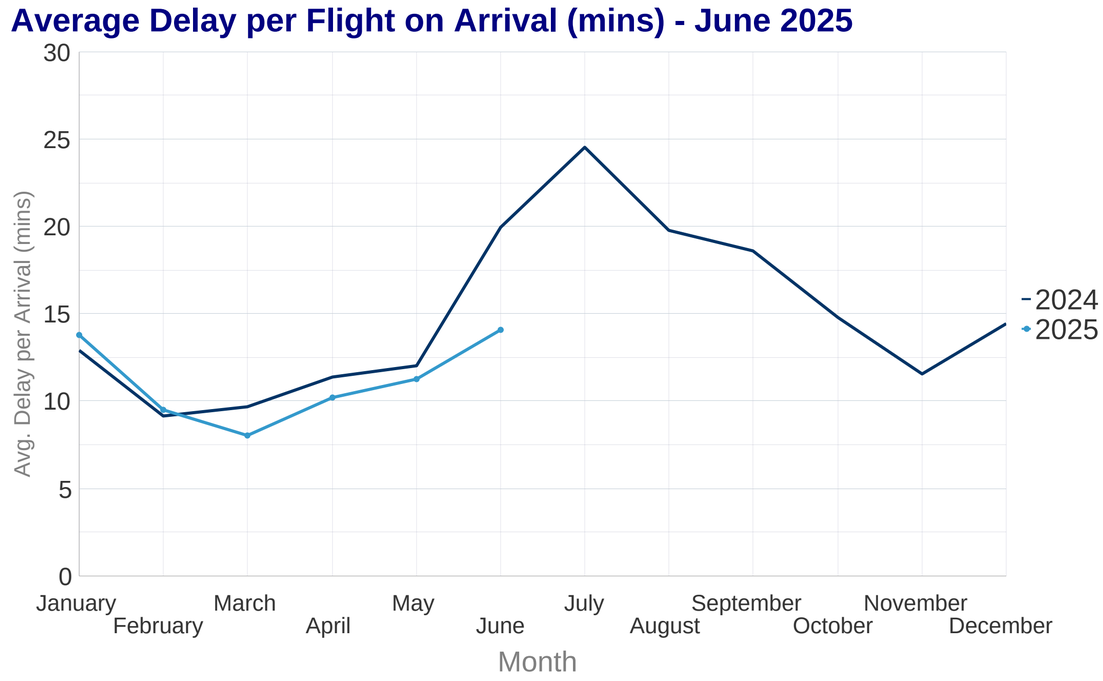
Average Delay per Arrival (mins) - June 2025



In June 2025 the average delay per flight on arrival was 14.1 minutes per flight.
This was a decrease of 5.9 minutes per flight when compared to June 2024 where the average delay per flight was 20.0 minutes.
